RE: Notice of Data Breach

To Whom It May Concern:

We are writing to inform you that a criminal actor gained unauthorized access to Bath Fitter's system, resulting in a data security incident at Bath Fitter ("we", "us", or "our"). The incident may have involved your personal information, and this letter provides details about what happened, what information of yours may have been involved, and what resources are available to you.

What Happened?

On May 13, 2026, we learned that a criminal actor gained unauthorized access to our systems. We promptly began investigating this incident and discovered that the criminal actor had access to our network during the early morning of May 13, 2026.

What Information Was Involved?

Based on the investigation to date, the incident may have affected certain personal information relating to you. This may include your social security number, date of birth, financial account numbers (without any associated personal identification numbers (PINs) or passwords), health and safety information, direct pay authorizations, compensation-related information, and onboarding materials such as applications, résumés, background checks, and records related to disciplinary actions. If you provided a passport or driver's license number during your employment, this information may also have been impacted.

What We Are Doing.

Upon discovering the incident, we immediately launched a thorough investigation with the support of a leading cybersecurity firm. We also conducted an internal analysis to determine what data was impacted. This notice has not been delayed as a result of a law enforcement investigation.

We are making credit monitoring available through Epiq for a period of twenty-four (24) months at no cost to you. You can enroll using the instructions below.

To protect against future security incidents, we have taken a number of steps, including:

- Engaging a dedicated Security Operations Center (SOC) to provide continuous, around-the-clock monitoring of our systems and network for suspicious activity and potential threats;
- Implementing multi-factor authentication (MFA) across our systems to add an additional layer of security to user accounts and reduce the risk of unauthorized access;

- Replacing our existing endpoint protection solution with an enhanced platform that provides stronger detection and response capabilities against cyber threats; and
- Making targeted adjustments to our network infrastructure to strengthen our overall security posture, including enhanced segmentation, improved access controls, and updated firewall configurations.

What You Can Do.

If your personal information has been accessed, you may be at heightened risk of fraud or identity theft. Therefore, we recommend that if you discover any suspicious or unusual activity on your accounts, your credit reports, or your online accounts, you promptly notify the financial institution or company with which your account is maintained.

Steps you can take to protect your identity include:

- Enroll in the offered credit monitoring service;
- Review account statements, explanation-of-benefits statements, and credit reports for suspicious activity;
- Report suspected identity theft or fraud promptly to financial institutions, insurers, local law enforcement, your state Attorney General, and the Federal Trade Commission;
- Consider placing a fraud alert or security freeze on your credit file as explained below:
 - A fraud alert tells creditors to take extra steps to verify your identity before extending credit. An initial fraud alert lasts one year and can be placed by contacting any one of the three major credit reporting agencies listed below. That agency will notify the other two.
 - A security freeze restricts access to your credit report, making it more difficult for identity thieves to open new accounts in your name. There is no charge to place, temporarily lift, or permanently remove a security freeze. To place a freeze, contact each of the three credit reporting agencies directly using the contact information listed below. You may need to provide name, SSN, date of birth, address, proof of residency, and proof of identity to place a security freeze; and
- You have the right to file a police report if you believe you are the victim of identity theft. You may also obtain information from law enforcement about identity theft crimes.

For More Information.

We apologize for any inconvenience or concern this may have caused you. For additional information about how the breach may have affected you, please contact our call center at 1-888-616-9421, which is available Monday through Friday, 9 am to 9 pm Eastern Time (excluding US holidays).

Protecting your personal information is important to us. We trust that services we are offering to you demonstrate our continued commitment to your security and satisfaction.

Sincerely,

BATH FITTER

Your Operations Support Team

Fair Credit Reporting Act. You also have rights under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, which promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. The FTC has published a list of the primary rights created by the FCRA (<https://www.ftc.gov/enforcement/statutes/fair-credit-reporting-act>). The FTC's list of FCRA rights includes:

- You have the right to receive a copy of your credit report. The copy of your report must contain all the information in your file at the time of your request.
- Each of the nationwide credit reporting agencies is required to provide you with a free copy of your credit report, at your request, once every 12 months.

- You are also entitled to a free report if a company takes adverse action against you, like denying your application for credit, insurance, or employment, and you ask for your report within 60 days of receiving notice of the action. The notice will give you the name, address, and phone number of the credit reporting agency. You are also entitled to one free report a year if you are unemployed and plan to look for a job within 60 days; if you are on welfare; or if your report is inaccurate because of fraud, including identity theft.
- You have the right to ask for a credit score.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information.
- Access to your file is limited. You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers.
- You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you receive based on information in your credit report.
- You may seek damages from violators.
- Identity theft victims and active-duty military personnel have additional rights.
