Cambridge University Press & Assessment (“CUPA”) concluded an investigation into an incident involving unauthorized access to certain files during a network intrusion. Upon learning of the incident, CUPA took measures to secure the network and began an investigation. The evidence showed that an unauthorized actor exfiltrated certain data from the network on June 5, 2024. CUPA notified its current employees of the incident beginning on June 27, 2024 and offered the current employee population complimentary identity protection services at the time of the notifications. CUPA reviewed the files that were potentially involved, which took a substantial amount of time and, determined the files potentially involved included personal information of some individuals. CUPA then searched for address information for individuals involved, and, on April 8, 2025, determined the files contained the name and Social Security number of 33 Nebraska residents.

On April 23, 2025, CUPA mailed notification letters to the Nebraska residents via United States First-Class mail. A copy of the notification letter is enclosed. CUPA is offering the residents two years of complimentary credit monitoring and identity theft restoration services through Experian. CUPA has also provided an email contact and established a dedicated call center that individuals can call to obtain more information regarding the incident.

To help prevent something like this from happening again, CUPA has taken steps to enhance its existing security measures.

Subject: Important information about your data

<<b2b_text_1(Notice of Data Breach - CA ONLY)>>

Dear <<first_name>>,

We are writing regarding a cybersecurity incident experienced by Cambridge University Press & Assessment. We were able to respond to the incident extremely quickly and took immediate action to secure and protect our systems, as well as appointing external forensic and IT security experts to carry out a full investigation.

What Happened? On June 5, 2024, we identified suspicious activity in a network segment of our subsidiary in Australia. We immediately took steps to secure our systems, commenced our investigation and engaged external forensic and IT security experts. The investigation identified certain data that was accessed by the unauthorized party.

What Information Was Involved? We reviewed the content of that data, which took time, and, our investigation established that one or more of the files involved includes personal information relating to you which we hold, including your <<b2b_text_2(data elements)>>. We then searched for address information for individuals involved, and, on April 8, 2025, we located addresses of involved individuals. We have no reason to believe that your information was specifically targeted, but we wanted to bring the matter to your attention as soon as possible.

What We Are Doing. We are taking this matter incredibly seriously. We have informed law enforcement and are supporting their investigation. We are sorry that data may have been accessed this way. Safeguarding the privacy of the data that we hold remains of critical importance to us. To help prevent something similar in the future, we have taken steps to enhance our existing security controls and procedures.

Although we do not believe that the objective of the third party who perpetrated the incident is to commit fraud using personal data, it is possible that the affected information could be used to try and perpetrate financial crime.

What You Can Do.

To mitigate against this potential risk, we are offering you two years of credit and identity monitoring services, free of charge, with Experian IdentityWorksSM Credit 3B. This product helps detect any misuse of your personal information and provides you with identity protection services that focus on immediate identification and resolution of any instance of identity theft. IdentityWorks is completely free to you and enrolling in this program will not affect your credit score. For more information on IdentityWorks, including instructions on how to activate your complimentary two-year membership, as well as additional steps you can take to protect your information, please see the pages that follow this letter.

We encourage people to remain vigilant against any suspicious activity. For more information on identity theft prevention, including additional steps you can take to help protect yourself, please see the additional information provided with this letter.

For More Information. If you have any questions about this, please call (866) 408-2208, Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Eastern Time, excluding some major U.S. holidays.

Best wishes,

Catie Sheret

ADDITIONAL STEPS YOU CAN TAKE

We remind you it is always advisable to be vigilant for incidents of fraud or identity theft by reviewing your account statements and free credit reports for any unauthorized activity. You may obtain a copy of your credit report, free of charge, once every 12 months from each of the three nationwide credit reporting companies. To order your annual free credit report, please visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call toll free at 1-877-322-8228. Contact information for the three nationwide credit reporting companies is as follows:

- Equifax, PO Box 740241, Atlanta, GA 30374, www.equifax.com, 1-888-378-4329
- Experian, PO Box 2002, Allen, TX 75013, www.experian.com, 1-888-397-3742
- TransUnion, PO Box 2000, Chester, PA 19016, www.transunion.com, 1-833-799-5355

If you believe you are the victim of identity theft or have reason to believe your personal information has been misused, you should immediately contact the Federal Trade Commission and/or the Attorney General's office in your state. You can obtain information from these sources about steps an individual can take to avoid identity theft as well as information about fraud alerts and security freezes. You should also contact your local law enforcement authorities and file a police report. Obtain a copy of the police report in case you are asked to provide copies to creditors to correct your records. Contact information for the Federal Trade Commission is as follows:

- Federal Trade Commission, Consumer Response Center, 600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, DC 20580, 1-877-IDTHEFT (438-4338), www.identitytheft.gov

Fraud Alerts and Credit or Security Freezes:

Fraud Alerts: There are two types of general fraud alerts you can place on your credit report to put your creditors on notice that you may be a victim of fraud—an initial alert and an extended alert. You may ask that an initial fraud alert be placed on your credit report if you suspect you have been, or are about to be, a victim of identity theft. An initial fraud alert stays on your credit report for one year. You may have an extended alert placed on your credit report if you have already been a victim of identity theft with the appropriate documentary proof. An extended fraud alert stays on your credit report for seven years.

To place a fraud alert on your credit reports, contact one of the nationwide credit bureaus. A fraud alert is free. The credit bureau you contact must tell the other two, and all three will place an alert on their versions of your report.

For those in the military who want to protect their credit while deployed, an Active Duty Military Fraud Alert lasts for one year and can be renewed for the length of your deployment. The credit bureaus will also take you off their marketing lists for pre-screened credit card offers for two years, unless you ask them not to.

Credit or Security Freezes: You have the right to put a credit freeze, also known as a security freeze, on your credit file, free of charge, which makes it more difficult for identity thieves to open new accounts in your name. That's because most creditors need to see your credit report before they approve a new account. If they can't see your report, they may not extend the credit.

How do I place a freeze on my credit reports? There is no fee to place or lift a security freeze. Unlike a fraud alert, you must separately place a security freeze on your credit file at each credit reporting company. For information and instructions to place a security freeze, contact each of the credit reporting agencies at the addresses below:

- Experian Security Freeze, PO Box 9554, Allen, TX 75013, www.experian.com
- TransUnion Security Freeze, PO Box 2000, Chester, PA 19016, www.transunion.com
- Equifax Security Freeze, PO Box 105788, Atlanta, GA 30348, www.equifax.com

You'll need to supply your name, address, date of birth, Social Security number and other personal information.

After receiving your freeze request, each credit bureau will provide you with a unique PIN (personal identification number) or password. Keep the PIN or password in a safe place. You will need it if you choose to lift the freeze.

How do I lift a freeze? A freeze remains in place until you ask the credit bureau to temporarily lift it or remove it altogether. If the request is made online or by phone, a credit bureau must lift a freeze within one hour. If the request is made by mail, then the bureau must lift the freeze no later than three business days after getting your request.

If you opt for a temporary lift because you are applying for credit or a job, and you can find out which credit bureau the business will contact for your file, you can save some time by lifting the freeze only at that particular credit bureau. Otherwise, you need to make the request with all three credit bureaus.

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act: The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Your major rights under the FCRA are summarized below. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or write to: Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street NW, Washington, DC 20552.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you.
- You have the right to know what is in your file.
- You have the right to ask for a credit score.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information.
- Access to your file is limited.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers.
- You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report.
- You have a right to place a “security freeze” on your credit report, which will prohibit a consumer reporting agency from releasing information in your credit report without your express authorization.
- You may seek damages from violators.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights.
