Notice of Data Breach

Dear <<First_name>> <<Last_name>>,

The Richmond Behavioral Health Authority (“RBHA”) writes to notify you of a data security incident that may have impacted you. This notice is to inform you about the incident, our response, and steps you may take to protect against possible misuse of your personal information, should you feel it appropriate to do so.

What happened?

On or about September 30, 2025, RBHA became aware that it was the victim of a data incident. Immediately, RBHA’s management, IT and third-party cybersecurity experts were engaged to investigate the incident, secure personal information and protect RBHA’s network from compromise.

To date, our investigation revealed that malicious actors gained access to RBHA’s network on or about September 29, 2025, and deployed ransomware to encrypt portions of the network. The malicious actors’ network access was terminated as soon as it was detected. There is no definitive evidence that your personal information was accessed at this time. However, because an unknown actor gained access to our network, we are providing this notice out of an abundance of caution. To date, we have not received any indication that your information was misused by an unauthorized individual.

What information was involved?

It is possible that your full name or first initial and last name combined with your Social Security number, passport number, financial account information or health information may have been seen or accessed. This information is called your personal information or protected health information. It tells others about you and is a part of your identity.

What we are doing.

We take the confidentiality, privacy, and security of information in our care seriously. Upon discovering the incident, information technology experts were immediately engaged and commenced an investigation to determine the nature and scope of the incident. While the investigation remains ongoing, we are taking steps now to implement additional safeguards and review policies and procedures relating to data privacy and security.

RBHA has implemented additional security measures designed to further protect the privacy of our students, staff and partners. Among other steps taken, we engaged a leading strategic service provider to monitor our cybersecurity systems, reviewed our system’s architecture, and implemented stronger policies to prevent future attacks.

Fraud Alerts. There are two types of fraud alerts you can place on your credit report to put your creditors on notice that you may be a victim of fraud—an initial alert and an extended alert. You may ask that an initial fraud alert be placed on your credit report if you suspect you have been, or are about to be, a victim of identity theft. An initial fraud alert stays on your credit report for at least one year. You may have an extended alert placed on your credit report if you have already been a victim of identity theft and you have the appropriate documentary proof. An extended fraud alert stays on your credit report for seven years. You can place a fraud alert on your credit report by contacting any of the three national credit reporting agencies.

Security Freeze. You have the ability to place a security freeze, also known as a credit freeze, on your credit report free of charge.

A security freeze is intended to prevent credit, loans and services from being approved in your name without your consent. To place a security freeze on your credit report, you may use an online process, an automated telephone line, or submit a written request to any of the three credit reporting agencies listed above. The following information must be included when requesting a security freeze (note that, if you are requesting a credit report for your spouse, this information must be provided for him/her as well): (1) full name, with middle initial and any suffixes; (2) Social Security number; (3) date of birth; (4) current address and any previous addresses for the past 5 years; and (5) any applicable incident report or complaint with a law enforcement agency or the Registry of Motor Vehicles. The request must also include a copy of a government-issued identification card and a copy of a recent utility bill or bank or insurance statement. It is essential that each copy be legible, and display your name, current mailing address, and the date of issue.
