Nature of the Data Event

On or about May 19, 2025, Casino, LLC identified unauthorized activity on certain systems within its computer network. Casino promptly took steps to contain the activity and launched an investigation, with the support of third-party cybersecurity specialists to determine the nature and scope of the incident. The investigation determined an unauthorized actor gained access to certain systems and servers within the Casino network between May 14, 2025 and May 18, 2025, and removed certain information stored within. Casino then took steps to thoroughly review and analyze the data, with the support of third-party data review specialists, to determine what information was present within the involved files and the individuals to whom it relates. This comprehensive process first involved identifying where the data was stored within the Casino network, collecting it for transfer to a vendor, and then programmatically and manually reviewing each document to identify the information contained therein. Thereafter, Casino conducted additional review of the data mining results to validate and confirm the findings, identify the relationship to the impacted individuals, and identify address information for individuals in order to provide notice. Casino also used the services of a mailing vendor to look up address information where an address was not internally available. This review was recently completed.

The information that could have been subject to unauthorized access may vary by individual but includes name, driver's license or state ID, and Social Security number.

Steps You Can Take To Protect Personal Information

Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order a free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. Consumers may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of their credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended "fraud alert" on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer's credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer's credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer's identity before extending new credit. If consumers are the victim of identity theft, they are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should consumers wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a "credit freeze" on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer's express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in a consumer's name without consent. However, consumers should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in their credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application they make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, consumers cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on their credit report. To request a credit freeze, individuals may need to provide some or all of the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver's license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if they are a victim of identity theft.

Should consumers wish to place a credit freeze or fraud alert, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:
